

BIZARRE BUT TRUE

Posted by helen - 14 Jun 2012 13:56

Hi all

Comments please....

My spine is now a burning tourniquet, cramping and wrenching my muscles throughout my body, face and head. Even though I do very little, my attacks are every couple of days. Apologies for being a cry-baby, but finding this very hard to cope with.

Best wishes

Helen

Hi ichikirei702

Many thanks for your response - I received your full message via my e-mail (not showing up on the Forum). Glad to hear I'm not the only one going mad! Forgive my ignorance but please let me know what RDPS is.

Before I was diagnosed with Arachnoiditis, I was told I had "Sympathetic Reflex Dystrophy Syndrome" !

I really hope you can get some relief from your painful symptoms.

Love Helen
