

Pain pump?

Posted by Catlover1 - 19 May 2006 10:21

---

I would like to know if anyone has been fitted with a pain pump?

And what are the results on the pain level with it?

My neurosurgeon suggested this implant, but I'm not convinced that it will work for me as I've had a dorsal nerve stimulator implant last year with total rejection. The implant had to be removed in an emergency op., and I'm not looking forward to a repeat of that!

I'm so desperate for any relief of this pain, and I'm scared that I'll make a wrong decision!

My other fear is that I'll have a Porphyria reaction to the constant level of medication, and that is a situation that I don't even want to THINK about.

Please help me!

Hi Elizabeth, I am getting ready to do the same thing. I know very little about it.

I am also interested in any comments on this.

Many Blessings,

Becky
