

Forum registration

Posted by Kim - 18 Sep 2006 19:02

I have been on as an Administrator today and notice some people have signed up but have not been registered!

This may be because they have an automated system which sends out an email to use a certain number first and that confirms your registration.

Unfortunately this may well go straight to peoples Junk Mail and be missed.

If it's anything like my Junk Mail programme they have managed to junk my daughter, Ann and the good Doc as well as a certain 'good friend' of mine:whistle:

If people find this has happened and they have binned their junk mail just sign on again with a different name or password.

You don't have to register to just view the forum, only if you want to post any replies. 🗨

Knocking off for the day and hoping to be back tomorrow

Kim

=====