

This board?

Posted by Catlover1 - 13 Jun 2007 17:50

Am I missing something or has this board died a quiet death?

Hope not!

=====

Re:This board?

Posted by kev - 15 Aug 2007 00:03

Well my ortho gave me a verbal diagnosis but even that was like drawing teeth! Dunno what is actually in my records but he claimed to not know much about the condition.

Anyway, look forward to seeing the Doc post again.

Oh and i read in the paper today that the Scottish NHS is refusing to pay for Lyrica (Pregabalin) for patients with chronic pain as it is too expensive. 😊

=====

Re:This board?

Posted by Kim - 15 Aug 2007 07:36

Hi Kev

Got a message from the Doc today and will post tomorrow/today:whistle: Had a bad do today and had to be picked up and taken home, not funny.

Pregabalin not heard or read story but then I don't buy or read newspapers anymore, but will follow up.

Ann's back:kiss: 😊 and got a link to follow up at www.neupsig.org/ Not sure of the significance yet. I will have to 'kill her' if this is just about Wells:evil:

Doc has got some powerpoint but would need the lovely Jamie to be able to post that.

Got a question for you: why would a lumbar puncture at C2-C3 be consider 'highly dangerous' but a steroid injection not?

Bye for now

Kim

=====

Re:This board?

Posted by DocSarah - 15 Aug 2007 20:20

quickie answer Kim is both are pretty dangerous!!!

DocS:laugh:

=====