

HOUSE - TV prog

Posted by Kim - 05 Jul 2007 06:50

Has anyone watched HOUSE on TV? It was on here UK at 9pm so out of my timescale for caring. But my daughter got me Series One on DVD on EBAY and great - no adverts. So I got Series Two. Now I am trying to watch Series Three on the TV but they have these adverts I can't stand.

Life is too short to watch or listen to adverts I never want or need and I spend a fortune on batteries to mute them.

What I do like is the various ways they discuss arachnoiditis without saying the name. Transverse Myelitis comes up every week, brilliant, must be funded by the pharmaceutical industry. (Must get an English Spell Checker on here).

Hugh Laurie, definately a 'Crisps in Bed Man' but do you see how they treat his PAIN? He is always the villian, the sufferer (I hate that word). I am with HOUSE - living with arachnoiditis. Ask ALY about Ketamine!

Bye for now

Kim
