

DocSarah has just informed us that she has been awarded the

Arthritis Champion of the Year 2007

on the 60th Anniversary of Arthritis Care. This was a study she undertook for them into Self Management of Chronic Pain. She will be going up to Westminster, London, for a ceremony in October.

There will be a photograph of the ceremony posted on their website and I will post a link as soon as we have it.

We sincerely hope she can get permission to post her findings on our website, when the report is completed. Or at the very least we will post a link.

Here's the link
